

Electrical Safety Boundaries

"safety is a core value and business priority"

The arc flash boundary is the minimum "safe" distance from exposed energized conductors or circuit parts that has the potential for an arc flash; When you see an electrician working within these boundaries keep away and maintain distance as instructed by the Electrician.

As part of the new Electrical safety Policy these retractable delineators will be installed throughout the mill to limit exposure around electrical equipment.

