

Reporting is Important!

If incidents aren't reported, there's a high chance that they'll happen again.

When an incident is reported, it gives the safety team and workers a chance to analyze an incident's primary cause and create prevention strategies.

Even if an incident seems small and non-consequential, reporting it can bring awareness to a larger issue and prevent more serious incidents from happening in the future.

"Safety is a core value and business priority"